Norman Rockwell Museum

The Norman Rockwell Museum is one of the few museums in the country to have grown, literally, out of popular demand and celebrates its thirty-fifth anniversary in 2004. Located on Stockbridge's historic Main Street for its first 24 years, the Museum moved in 1993 to its present home, which was designed by the renowned architect Robert A. M. Stern and is situated on 36 picturesque acres overlooking the Housatonic River Valley. Since moving to its new location and greatly expanding its educational programming, exhibition schedule, and special events, the Museum has become the most popular year-round destination in the culturally rich Berkshires of western Massachusetts.
